Metro signs up to Christmas Prom

Metro Bar & Grill is the latest sponsor to sign up to the Christmas Prom, a musical event being held at the Town Hall to help to raise funds for hundreds of local community charity projects within Greater Birmingham.

The popular city centre eating and drinking venue is offering Prom goers a special two course pre concert menu for £15 which includes a large glass of wine. A percentage of proceeds taken on this offer will be donated to the charity.

The annual musical event, which starts at 8pm is being held on Tuesday December 15th in support of the Birmingham Community Foundation, offers a rich mix of Christmas carols combined with traditional Prom classics such as Jerusalem and Pomp and Circumstance.

Other sponsors have already started to sign up to support this event and they include Dickens Foundation, Jobson James, John Matthews Consulting, Metro Bar and Grill, Marc Kirsten photography and the Town Hall themselves who will be donating a mince pie with every drink sold during the interval.

Chris Kelly, joint owner of Metro Bar and Grill said: "This musical concert is now a firm annual event and one that raises money to help our local communities. We wanted to play our part and thought that we could provide a hassle free opportunity to enjoy a great meal prior to the concert starting at a cost that did not break the bank."

Held in association with international engineering consultancy Hyder and compered by broadcaster and journalist Adrian Goldberg, the event will be performed by the Birmingham Philharmonic Orchestra under the baton of conductor Richard Laing.

Tickets for the concert are priced at £15 and £20 and can be obtained by calling the Birmingham Community Foundation on 0121 322 5560 or email christmasprom@bhamfoundation.co.uk

Reservations for Metro can be made by phoning 0121 200 1911 quoting the reference 'Christmas Prom.'
